

Classroom SEL pack, a week on courage, ages 3 to 7

Pip the Brave Parrot

A five-day plan with everything to print: word cards, a poster, a feelings chart, sequencing cards, activity cards, promise cards, an observation grid, exit tickets and family letters in five languages. The Home Activity Pack is included at the back.

Classroom licence: one teacher may print and copy this pack for their own class and students' families. Please don't share the file or post it online.

The week at a glance

About 20 to 30 minutes a day. Each day stands alone if you only have time for one.

Day	What you do	Print
Day 1 Read and learn the words	Read the story with the pause points. Teach the five words with gestures. Put up the poster and word cards.	Pages 3, 4, 5
Day 2 Feelings	Feelings check-in. Re-read the book and talk about how the characters felt, using the talk questions.	Pages 6, 9
Day 3 Retell	Mix up the sequencing cards and put the story back in order as a class. Retell with “First… Then… At the end…”.	Page 7
Day 4 Call for help	Hide the toy bird somewhere ‘fallen’. The child who finds it practises a strong, clear call: ‘I need help!’ Talk about who the grown-ups are that children can call in rea…	Page 8
Day 5 Pass Pip’s song	Pass Pip’s song, then promise cards and exit tickets. Send the family letter home.	Pages 8, 10, 14 to 16

Day 1: the read-aloud

Before (3 minutes)

Show the cover. Ask: What kind of bird is this? How do you think he feels? Ask: Have you ever wanted to say something but felt too shy? It's okay to just think about it. Practise voices: whisper 'hello', say it in a normal voice, then a strong voice. Notice that all of them are your voice.

During: stop, ask, listen (10 minutes)

Spread	What happens	Ask	Listen for
4	Pip hums alone but stays silent around others.	Why was Pip quiet when other birds were around?	shy, scared they would laugh
5	Pip remembers being laughed at.	How do you think it felt for Pip when others laughed?	sad, embarrassed, hurt
7	Pip finds the baby bird; his heart pounds.	What does the baby bird need?	help, to get back to the nest, its mother
8	Pip tries to lift the baby, but it is too heavy.	What else could Pip do?	call for help, find a grown-up bird
9	'That means I have to call out. Loudly.'	What made Pip decide to sing out loud?	someone needed him, the baby needed help
10	His voice wobbles, but he keeps going.	How do you think Pip felt when his voice wobbled? Why did he keep going?	scared, nervous; the baby needed him
14	The baby sings a tiny version of Pip's song.	How do you think Pip feels now?	proud, happy, surprised
15	No one laughs; they listen.	What changed for Pip?	others listen, he sings when happy or brave

Spread numbers match the reader on the class screen. You don't need every stop.

Handle with care: Being shy is not a problem to fix. The message is that your voice is yours, quiet or loud. More notes on the "For every child" page.

Sequencing cards

Cut apart for the pocket chart. The four scenes come from the start, two middles and the end of the book, mixed up. Put them in order and retell. Children can color them too.

Answer key, top left to bottom right: 3, 1, 4, 2.

Activity cards

Cut out and keep with the book. Use one on Day 4 and one on Day 5, or any time.

Call for help

10 minutes, Whole class, Materials: A soft toy bird

Hide the toy bird somewhere ‘fallen’. The child who finds it practises a strong, clear call: ‘I need help!’ Talk about who the grown-ups are that children can call in real life.

Pass Pip’s song

10 minutes, Whole class, Materials: Shakers or clapping

One child makes a short, simple tune or rhythm. The next child copies it, like the baby bird copying Pip. Pass it all around the circle. Every voice, soft or loud, counts.

My voice picture

15 minutes, Individual, Materials: Paper, crayons

Children draw a time they used their voice to help or to say something important, and tell a partner about it.

Science and nature corner

Parrots live mostly in warm tropical forests. Many are very social and call to each other to stay in touch with their flock, and many nest in holes in trees, just like Pip’s home in the oldest tree. Some parrots can copy sounds. In real life, a baby bird on the ground is often a fledgling learning to fly, and its parents are usually close by. If you find one, don’t pick it up: tell a grown-up.

Talk together

Use after reading, at circle time or with a small group. Accept every honest answer.

1. Why was Pip quiet when other birds were around?

Look for: He remembered being laughed at for his soft voice.

2. What made Pip decide to sing out loud?

Look for: The baby bird needed help, and calling out was the only way.

3. How do you think Pip felt when his voice wobbled? Why did he keep going?

Look for: Scared and nervous, but someone needed him.

4. How did it feel when others laughed? And later when they listened?

Look for: Hurt and small at first; happy and strong later.

5. When is it important to use your voice, even if you feel shy?

Look for: Any answer: when someone needs help, when you need help, when something is not fair.

The big line

“Your voice doesn’t have to be loud to be strong. It just has to be truly yours.”

The big idea: Being brave doesn’t mean not feeling scared. It means using your voice when it matters, even if it shakes.

Science and place corner

Pip's jungle has no name, so we picked Guyana. The best place left to see wild sun conures like Pip is near the village of Karasabai. Guyana is also home to the giant Kaieteur Falls.

Sun conure

Only about 1,000–2,500 grown-up sun conures are left in the wild.

Blue-gray tanagers

In Trinidad and Tobago this bird is nicknamed 'blue jean'.

Toco toucan

Toucans tuck their beaks under their wings to stay warm while they sleep.

Three-toed sloth

A sloth climbs down about once a week to poop.

Scarlet macaws and friends

A scarlet macaw can live 40–50 years in the wild.

Guyana, South America

Pip: Real sun conures are anything but quiet! Their calls are famously loud. Pip's soft voice and his green scarf are story ideas.

The baby bird and its mother: The book doesn't name this little blue bird, so we picked the blue-gray tanager, a common blue bird of South American forests.

The toucan: Real toucans do live in South American forests, but they'd be eating fruit rather than listening to songs. Probably!

For every child

English and French learners

Watch the read-aloud first. Teach ‘I need help!’ and ‘Help, please!’ with a hand-up gesture. Children can sing a tune without words.

Children who need more support

Use three stops (spreads 5, 9 and 15). This book has 17 spreads, with short text on each, so it reads quickly.

Shy or quiet children

Never make a child perform. Let them whisper, use a puppet, or play a shaker. Pip found his voice his own way, and so can they.

Handle with care

Being shy is not a problem to fix. The message is that your voice is yours, quiet or loud.

Real-life safety: children should never pick up a baby bird. Teach them to tell a grown-up.

If a child shares that they were laughed at, thank them and follow up kindly.

Where this value comes from

This story doesn’t come from one culture. In ancient China, Confucius said that seeing what is right and not doing it is a lack of courage. In a very old Egyptian story, a poor farmer finds his voice and speaks up again and again until he is heard.

English

Today we read Pip the Brave Parrot, a story about courage and finding your voice. Pip is a shy parrot with a small voice, but when a baby bird needs help, he sings out loud, even though his voice shakes. At home, talk with your child about who they can call when they need help, and practise saying 'I need help!' in a clear voice. You can watch or read the story together for free at doubleadventure.ca.

Français

Aujourd'hui, nous avons lu une histoire sur le courage et sur l'art de trouver sa voix : Pip, un perroquet timide à la petite voix, chante très fort quand un bébé oiseau a besoin d'aide, même si sa voix tremble. À la maison, parlez avec votre enfant des personnes qu'il peut appeler quand il a besoin d'aide, et entraînez-vous à dire « J'ai besoin d'aide ! » d'une voix claire. Vous pouvez lire ou regarder l'histoire gratuitement sur doubleadventure.ca.

Pip the Brave Parrot

Twelve pages to color, cut, trace, make and talk about, all from the story.
The value in this book: courage.

For use in your own home. Please don't share the file or post it online.

© A² Publishing, doubleadventure.ca

For grown-ups

Read the story first, then pick one page a day. Each page takes 10 to 20 minutes. There are no wrong answers.

The big idea

Being brave doesn't mean not feeling scared. It means using your voice when it matters, even if it shakes.

The big line

"Your voice doesn't have to be loud to be strong. It just has to be truly yours."

Five words from the story

Word	What it means	Do it
brave	doing something even when you feel scared	stand tall and put your hands on your hips quiet	making very little sound	put a finger to your lips voice	the sound you make when you talk or sing	touch your throat
wobble	to shake a little	wobble your hand
nest	a home that birds build for their babies	cup your hands into a bowl

A gentle note

Being shy is not a problem to fix. The message is that your voice is yours, quiet or loud.

Real-life safety: children should never pick up a baby bird. Teach them to tell a grown-up.

What you need

Crayons, a pencil, scissors, glue or tape, a few craft sticks or straws, and the book (or read it free on screen at doubleadventure.ca).

© A² Publishing, doubleadventure.ca

Meet the friends

Cut out each card along the dashed line. Tape a craft stick on the back and you have a puppet. Act out the story!

Make and do

Pick one to try today. Each one comes straight from the story.

My voice picture

You need: Paper, crayons

Children draw a time they used their voice to help or to say something important, and tell a partner about it.

Find your voice

Say 'hello' in a whisper, then a normal voice, then a big brave voice. Which felt the bravest?

Sloth slow-mo

Walk across the room as slowly as a sloth. Can you take a whole minute?

Toucan beak

Measure 19 cm on a ruler. That's how long a toco toucan's beak is!

Draw what you made

The real animals

The animals in Pip the Brave Parrot are based on real ones. Here is something true about each of them.

Pip

Sun conure

Only about 1,000–2,500 grown-up sun conures are left in the wild.

The baby bird and its mother

Blue-gray tanagers

In Trinidad and Tobago this bird is nicknamed 'blue jean'.

The toucan

Toco toucan

Toucans tuck their beaks under their wings to stay warm while they sleep.

The sloth

Three-toed sloth

A sloth climbs down about once a week to poop.

Story or real?

Real sun conures are anything but quiet! Their calls are famously loud. Pip's soft voice and his green scarf are story ideas.

Where they really live

Pip's jungle has no name, so we picked Guyana. The best place left to see wild sun conures like Pip is near the village of Karasabai. Guyana is also home to the giant Kaieteur Falls.
